Composer Stephen Melillo, pictured below, recorded Smithfield High School and Smithfield Middle School students in May performing "Love Conquers All, the Gift," from his album, "Love Conquers All, When Heaven Merges With Earth." Another song from the album, titled "Reprise from Love Conquers All," recently won a Hollywood Music in Media Award. (Photos submitted by Stephen Melillo).

Christmas-themed piece wins best epic/orchestral composition

Smithfield composer Stephen Melillo spent the evening of Nov. 16 at a friend's home eating dinner, and trying very hard to resist the urge to check Facebook to see who'd been nominated for the 65th Grammy Awards.

He'd been hoping to see his album, "The Grey II-III," a 142-minute collection of instrumental compositions, listed among the nominees. It was a long shot, but "I prayed anyway," Melillo said.

After tossing and turning in bed, he finally broke down at 1:23 a.m. the next morning and checked his phone.

As he'd expected, "The Grey II-III" wasn't nominated, but there was an unexpected message waiting for him from 2021 Grammy-winner Danaë Vlasse.

"I'm at the HMMAs - congratulations my friend - you and Cindy won!" the message read.

The Hollywood Music in Media Awards, or HMMAs, serves as a red-carpet event honoring original music in film, television, video games and other visual media across the globe. Among this year's winners were "Lift Me Up," performed by Rihanna for the blockbuster movie "Black Panther: Wakanda Forever," in the category of best feature film song; Simon Frangien's "Avatar: Way of the Water" for best fantasy film score; and "Reprise from Love Conquers All" by Melillo and lyricist Cindy Paulos in the category of best epic/orchestral genre composition.

Paulos, a music producer and longtime announcer for radio stations in Hawaii and Arizona, had approached Melillo in 2020 to write music for her album, "In the Hands of God." "Reprise from Love Conquers All" is the 10th of 11 songs included in the duo's second joint album, titled "Love Conquers All, When Heaven Merges With Earth."

Melillo didn't think to enter the work in the HMMAs, but Paulos did. The album, which Melillo and Paulos produced on a zero-dollar budget, ended up winning over nine other nominees, some of whom had access to $300,000 orchestras.

The album's mix of vocal and instrumental compositions, according to Melillo, is inspired by the Christmas story and intended for a stage musical or television production.

"It follows the timeline of the Magi, who Cindy calls 'The Astronomers'" and their journey to meet the newborn Jesus Christ, Melillo said.

It was intended as "a demo of sorts," Melillo said. Paulos, he said, is forging ahead with the possibility of staging the work.

One of the album's songs, titled "Love Conquers All, the Gift," is performed by Smithfield High School and Smithfield Middle School students. Melillo recorded the students in May.

Melillo, originally from Port Chester, New York, attributes his interest in instrumental compositions to his teenage years when he first heard Austrian composer Gustav Mahler's music.

"I listened to a 20-minute excerpt from his 10th symphony 100 times without stopping. Play, rewind; play, rewind," Melillo said. "Years later, I did the math. I had listened for 33,333 hours. His music had a profound effect on my life."

He took up writing his own music in high school, publishing his first composition with Bourne Music Publishers in the early 1990s. By 1992 he'd founded his self-publishing entity Stormworks. His now more than 1,320 works include four symphonies and 15 film scores, including the 1990 Academy Award-nominated "12:01 P.M." He's also the author of several novels, including "Ahab, a Love Story," intended as a prequel to Herman Melville's "Moby Dick," and a sequel titled "Death to Moby Dick, a Love Story."

Melillo relocated to Smithfield in 1994 to work with the Langley Air Force Band, which had commissioned a composition titled "David."

Melillo's most recent compositions include "Embracing sorrow," an album he released Nov. 26 as a tribute to the Ukrainian Holodomor, a manmade famine engineered by the former Soviet Union under Josef Stalin that killed an estimated 3.5 to 7 million Ukrainians from 1932-33, and "The MASS," which sets a Catholic mass to music.

Maestro Gerhardt Zimmermann, who passed away on 10 JUN 2023 at 10:38 AM had the Lifelong dream of recording a "Melillo Symphonies" Album.

Maestro Gerhardt Zimmermann said of Symphony IIII: Lightfall.

"If you want to know what the human spirit really is, you must, Yes - Must come to the Z tonight to hear a phenomenal world premiere that will put tears in your eyes. Symphony No. IIII by Stephen Melillo is a very powerful work. I am not embarrassed to admit that when I saw the score for the first time, I was in tears. What a powerful and moving work. It was commissioned by the Canton Symphony Orchestra for the 25th anniversary of the ADA (American Disabilities Act). Your soul will be opened."

Nancy R. Ping-Robbins, Music Critic

“Melillo ... follows a Beethovenesque design of increasing the musical tension almost to the breaking point, receding, and then reaching again. It is superlative musical craftsmanship and inspiring to hear.”

Marvin Sosna, Music Critic

First standing ovation in 40-year-history of the Meymandi Concert Hall, Raleigh, NC

During the intermission of the premiere of S-MATRIX (Symphony # Numberless) on 19 November 1992, a delighted Gerhardt Zimmermann summoned Stephen Melillo to his dressing room. There, Symphony II: At Life's Edge, was immediately commissioned.

As Maestro Zimmermann explained, “It was the First Standing Ovation ever given in the 40-year history of the Meymandi Concert Hall in Raleigh, North Carolina.”

“...a new voice in the direction of music, his sound – a bridge between the serious and the immediately visceral.” Maestro Gerhardt Zimmermann, Conductor

“...his ability to create a mood, find precisely the right touch of drama and create the needed effect was manifest... the sustained chords in the choir, the timpani’s roar, the harp’s glissandos. Melillo used them all with a sense of absolute rightness and the result was fresh, joyful and exciting... each measure scored with an unerring ear for drama and emotion... “He could become the Leonard Bernstein of this age... Everything he creates has many layers, ranging from synchronicity to the significance of numbers, from visceral emotions to the brotherhood of mankind.”
John S. Sweeney, Music Critic

Award-winning Author/International Speaker/Khmer Classic...

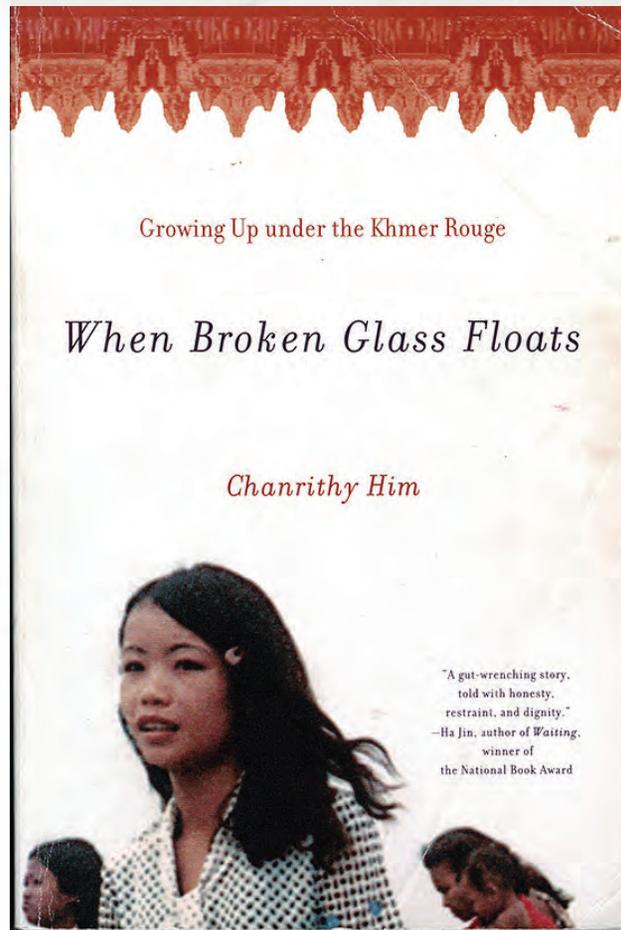

Catherine Louise Geach What beautiful souls you and Stephen Mellilo are! You both are undoubtedly an instrument for God's Love, Peace, and Healing.

To both of you, thanks so much for shining light on the tragic history of Ukraine and her Beloved People. (It is hard for me to read about it.)

As a child survivor of the Cambodian genocide, who has dedicated her life to educate the world about how wicked world leaders, such as Richard Nixon and Henry Kissinger, have caused Cambodia and her Beloved People suffering until Now, I am THANKFUL for You Both and your work for our Human Family.

We need Peace and Healing. Surely, I need both and more and so do the Ukrainians. My love 🔍 to them....

Awkun, Catherine and Stephen!!!

Chanrithy Him, author of the novel, “When Broken Glass Floats”, writes,

“The piece, “When Broken Glass Floats”, inspired by the title of my memoir is incredibly moving! It sure tugs at my heartstrings and I’m sure it will at other listeners’ as it has touched yours! How amazing is Stephen’s God-given gift!

I am so thankful that Stephen has composed this Piece!!! It is PERFECTLY placed within Maestro Melillo’s Album, Embracing Sorrow!”

STORMWORKS®

A TIMELESS FUSION OF ROMANCE & ADVENTURE

Embedded within the fabric of reality, STORMWORKS emerges as a captivating narrative, akin to a novel teeming with romance and adventure. Its origins trace back to 1990, when Mr. Melillo, while teaching at NYU, conceived the innovative “MIDIMAST” curriculum. This groundbreaking fusion of MIDI, Music, Mathematics, Science, and Technology aimed to empower New York City School Teachers in their efforts to impart Mathematics and Science education to children from inner-city schools.

Driven by a resolute desire to validate his instincts and drawing from his own firsthand experiences as a music educator, Mr. Melillo embarked on a bold quest. Undeterred by eleven years of rejections from publishing houses, his music is now rendered by more than 5000 conductors in over 80 countries.

In 1992-1993, Mr. Melillo embarked on a audacious experiment, the embodiment of the American Dream itself, by sharing a single piece of music with a lone band. Through the power of pre-internet word-of-mouth and a mere four advertisements over the span of seven years, STORMWORKS evolved from handwritten sheet music to the revolutionary PDF format, coinciding with Adobe's technological breakthrough. To date, STORMWORKS have been rendered countless times across the globe by renowned ensembles, professional groups, and educational institutions, guided by numerous international conductors who seek music inspired by a deeper purpose beyond mere commercial appeal.

As we approach the release of the 53rd album, aptly titled “STORMWORKS Chapter 89: Worlds Within the World,” the profound impact of STORMWORKS on the musical landscape cannot be overstated. In 1993, the composition “Rise of the Robots” made its debut at the NAMM (National Association of Music Merchants) Convention, forever transforming the landscape of game scoring. Yet, this is merely one facet of the larger narrative woven into the STORMNovel™, which will fully unfurl in 2057.

Since its inception, each STORMWORKS album has been a self-funded endeavor. For instance, the monumental “STORMWORKS Chapters 5:8 - Writings on the Wall” required an investment of $96,000. Over the years, the music industry has undergone profound transformations. CDs have become relics of the past, and recordings are predominantly experienced as isolated tracks through streaming services.

While this newfound convenience offers its advantages, the essence of the complete work can often be lost, as listeners forsake the overarching narrative for fragmented experiences. Paradoxically, these tracks are never truly “owned” but instead reside in a digital cloud, unable to be passed down to future generations.

STORMWORKS deftly combines traditional practices with innovative approaches to embrace the Timeless essence of Music. In a world where artistic endeavors continually evolve, your support becomes paramount, propelling the arts ever forward. Thank you for taking the time to delve into this narrative and exploring further. Thank you for your attention and continued support.

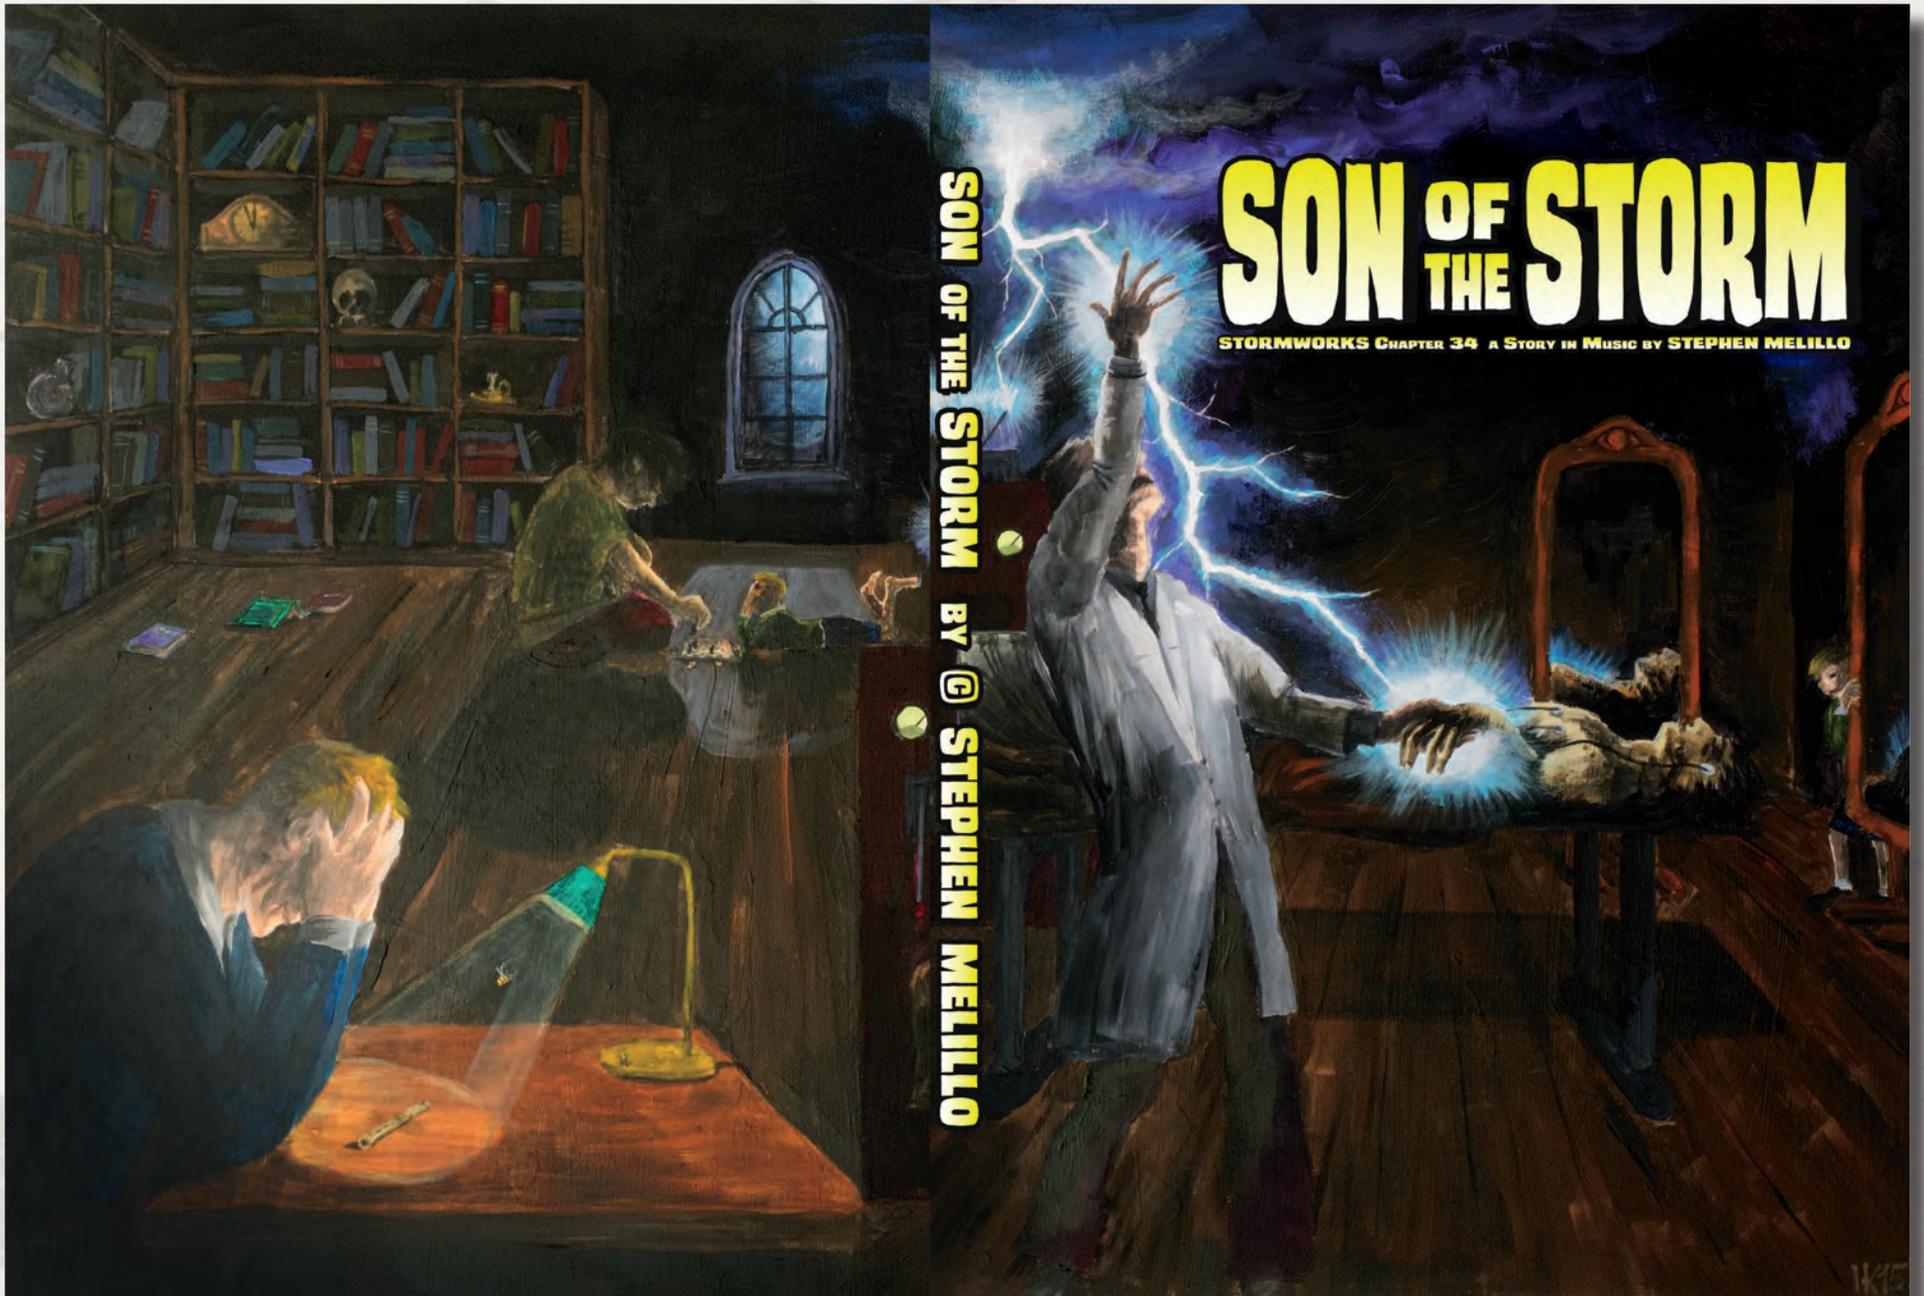

HISTORY & ACCOMPLISHMENTS of STORMWORKS

Events are listed in Chronological Order.

27 JAN 1991: The Score to the Academy-Award nominated short, "12:01 PM", was recorded at Evergreen Studio in Los Angeles.

1991: In that same year, a 2-hour Musical, "SON of the STORM", was composed.

"A Theme for Special Olympics" TRAILER

On the Same Date of 27 JAN, but in 1978, the young adult novel, "Only for Now", was written.

This work became a 9-movement suite for extended Wind & Jazz Ensembles. It was premiered at MIT in May of 1980.

From the Suite came my first piece for band, "A Theme for the Special Olympics." In 2020, it was made the Official Theme of the Special Olympics by the Virginia Special Olympics Committee.

Symphony shines with, without Meyers

By NANCY R. PING-ROBBINS
Correspondent

RALEIGH — Anne Aiko Meyers stepped to center stage Thursday night for an N.C. Symphony concert at Memorial Auditorium looking like a million dollars — and she played like a million dollars, too.

Absolutely riveting in a slim, strapless, full-length red satin gown, Meyers made her violin weep in a smooth-as-silk yet dramatic Prokofiev Concerto No. 2 in G major, Opus 63. Her big, vibrant Stradivarius sound could turn into a kitten's purr in a nanosecond in this concerto, with its astringent sonorities and angular arpeggiated figures juxtaposed with quiet interludes. A world-class violinist in a late 20th-century concert world of outstanding artists, she conquered Prokofiev's uncompromising piece with impeccable craftsmanship and musicianship.

Overall, this was an exceptional night for the symphony. Maestro Gerhardt Zimmermann announced before the first number (a world premiere) that it was chosen from some 300 others solicited from across the country. The composer, Stephen Melillo of Connecticut, had written 630 compositions before this one but "had never before had a piece performed by a major orchestra," according to the program notes.

His "S. Matrix" Symphony was fabulous, full of childlike wonderment (as the composer intended) and marvelous sounds. And they worked to maximum effect — a brilliant original use of orchestral resources for a sophisticated, sensational, beautiful and satisfying experience.

Shimmering bowed gong and a number of other intriguing sounds (the origins of which were sometimes unidentifiable from my vantage point) alternated with passages of rich strings speaking as one voice in a kind of Greek chorus that returned time and again in tones of peace and serenity.

The final movement was something like what a child's imagination might conjure up on a trip to another galaxy, particularly when three percussionists started swinging flexible tubes in circles, making them "sing" at different pitches. But always there was a return to a central core of rich strings, like a comfort zone from which the listener (the child in us) darts out to confront the unknown and the unimaginable.

Long, sustained applause drew the composer on stage for bows afterward.

But that wasn't all: Zimmermann and the orchestra offered an excellent performance of Mendelsohn's "Scottish" Symphony (No. 3 in A minor, Opus 56), dedicated to the late Patricia R. Hackney, former president of the symphony board.

For best effect, the Mendelssohn demands a high level of performance on the part of the conductor and musicians, and, with the newly upgraded standard of the French horn section (and new first horn player), the players were fully up to the challenge.

Someone down the line of horns lip-faulted a few times, but the ensemble was tremendously improved, with added sheen from the definitive first horn. Unfortunately for those sitting toward stage right, some clod had the nerve to start snapping pictures (and his camera had a loud shutter). The most delicate, quiet passages were rudely interrupted, but Zimmermann and team brought the work to a close for a performance that was otherwise first class.

1994: Symphony II: At Life's Edge was premiered. Again a long Standing ovation led to the creation of Symphony III: Lightfall. A Band Transcription of this work is on STORMWORKS Chapter 55: Way of the Wanderer.

Symphony III is "Wait of the World" on STORMWORKS Chapter 3: Wait of the World.

By the end of 1994, STORMWORKS Music was being played around the world by 4000 International Conductors. All of this was by "word-of-mouth" and limited pre-internet advertising.

1996: Chapter 1: Without Warning.

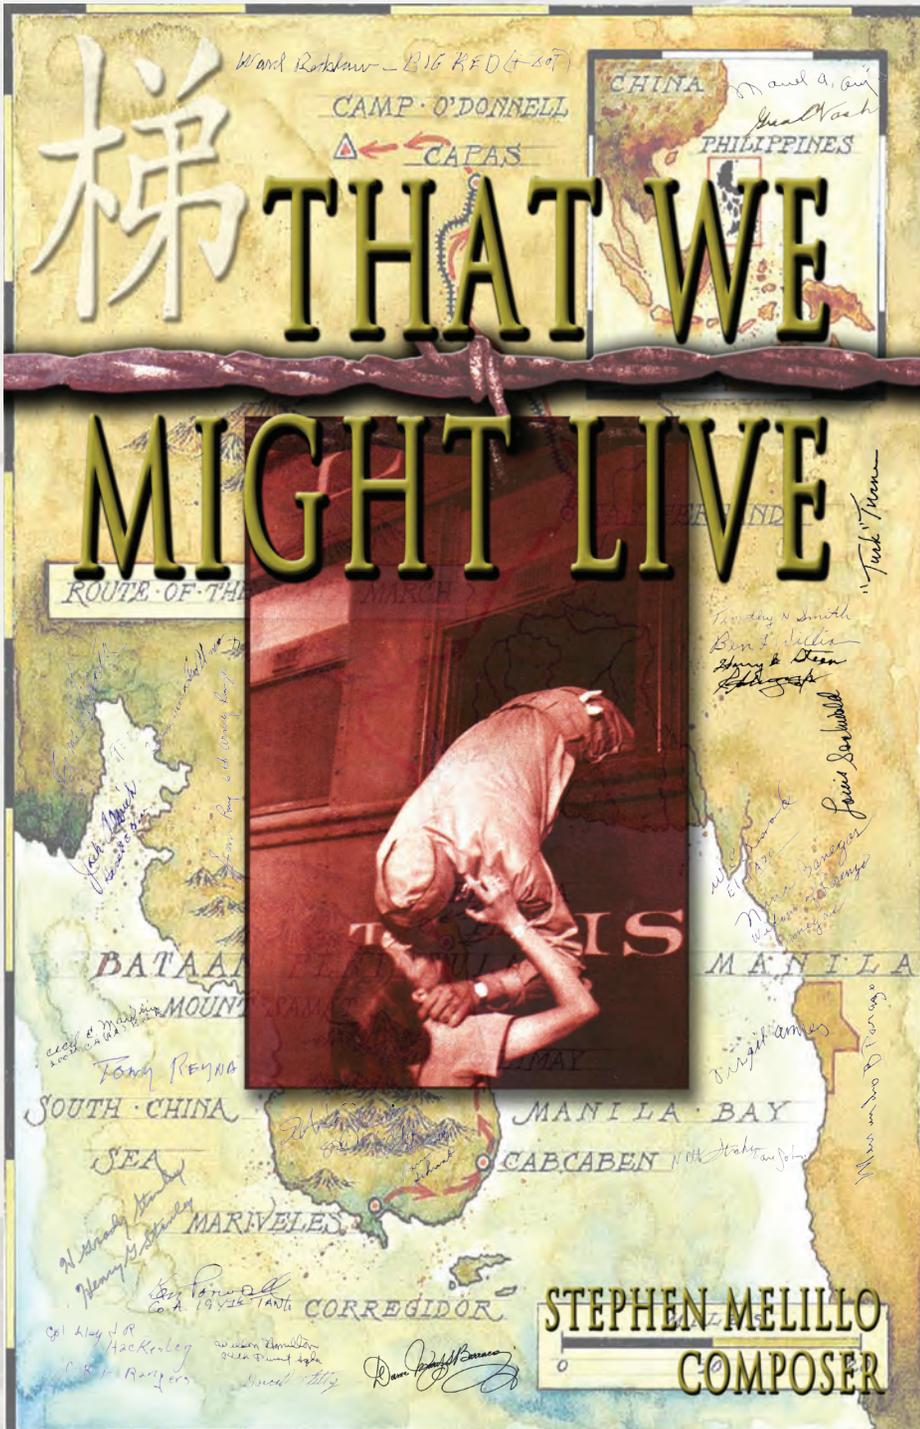

1998: Chapter 2: WENDE.

1999: Chapter 3: Wait of the World.

2000: Chapter 0: a Walk on the Water. Also in 2000, when the world of self-publishing books was in its infancy, the young adult novel, "Only for Now" was published.

2001: Chapter STORMJourneys. My Son, Spencer, is born on 11 SEP 2001, 24-minutes before the 1st building in NYC was hit. This date will now figure prominently throughout all future STORMWORKS Scores.

2003: Kakehashi: That We Might Live On Chapters 5:8, but also on DVD. During this year and beyond, our house was destroyed in Hurricane Isabel. In addition to composing Kakehashi: That We Might Live, I also composed the 68-minute Score for the film, "Retrograde".

2005: Chapters 5-8: Writings on the Wall. (A WORLD History Making Album)

2006: Chapter 1-Prime: a Wish to the World & the Premiere of LAST WORLD STANDING. (An Innovation in multi-media, pioneering PhotoRHYTHM™ & VISAReel™. At its premiere, this 33-minute work brought an 18-minute Standing ovation in The Brucknerhaus, Linz, Austria.)

The Brucknerhaus, Linz, Austria

2007: The DVD versions of Kakehashi: That We Might Live & Last World Standing. (The DVD of That We Might Live was sent to 17 Senators and Congressmen. Several of the ex-POWs were summarily awarded Bronze Stars and Purple Hearts as a result of this Music changing the world.)

KAKEHASHI: THAT WE MIGHT LIVE & SYMPHONY III: LIGHTFALL

BOTH NOMINATED FOR

Music made with such feeling elucidates the aspirations of Brotherhood and the timely ideals lived by Roberto Clemente. More ground-breaking. More cutting of the cutting edge™. A must for STORM Aficionados and newcomers alike.

STORMWORKS Chapter 55 & 89, Symphony IIII, Ark of the Covenant, Forever Strong, The Concerto for Tuba, The New Beginning, and much more, expanded around the globe and rendered by the world's finest ensembles. The STORMAdventure continues!

Last World Standing from STORWORKS Chapter 13, is a 33-minute work dedicated to and inspired by the "Heroes of Peace". It is an ode to the end of war, using pioneering, ground-breaking processes called VisaREEL™ and PHOTORhythm™. At its 2006 premiere in The Brucknerhaus, Linz, Austria, the work brought an 18-minute Standing ovation.

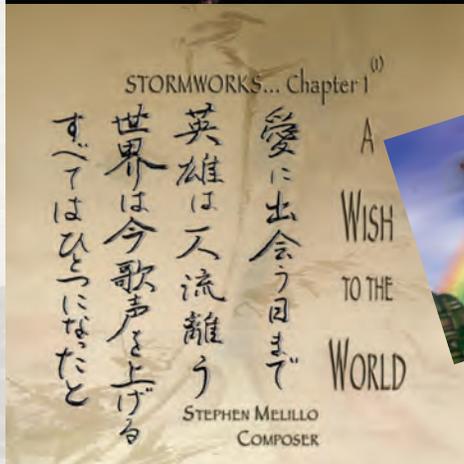

All Stormworks Albums are History-Making...

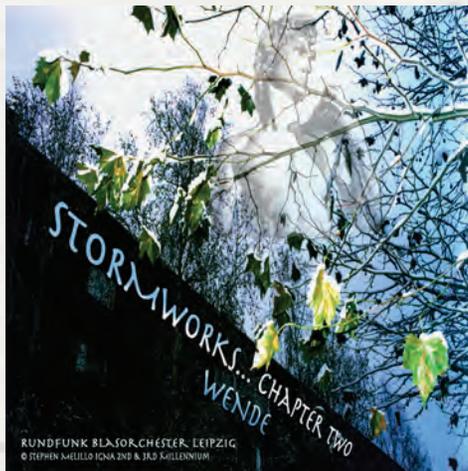

STORMWORKS Chapter 0 was the final recording made by the combined forces of The Dutch Royal Military Band with World Class Bassoonist, Dorian Cook, Musicians of The Rotterdam Philharmonic & The Bachkoor Bach Chorus of The Netherlands. Music from this album has been played and recorded in 26 countries, with After the Storm rendered in Singapore to an audience of over 2 million. (The piece, 21:WON WAY from Chapter 21 received a similar nationwide broadcast in December 2011 in Spain.)

STORMWORKS Chapter 1 was a whirlwind, record-breaking sight-reading and recording session, all done in adverse conditions. In just 12 grueling hours, fine Musicians of the combined U.S. Army, Navy, Air Force & Marine Bands joined by select college and professional players, rendered this first look at the Music from Stormworks. After 5 editions, the CDs were sold-out. Now you can stream at your favorite sites, or get the album directly at stormworld.com/tracks.

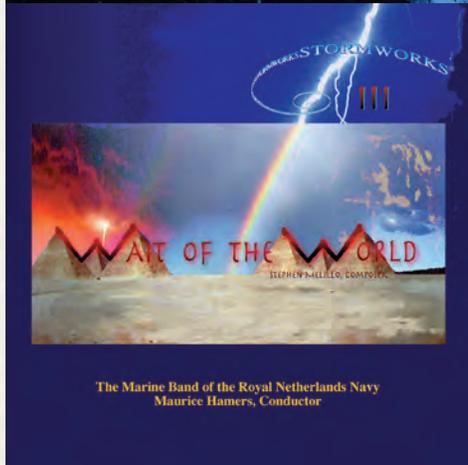

STORMWORKS Chapter 13^(prime) was recorded at Troy University in May of 2006. Mr. Ralph Ford not only prepared the ensemble, but experienced firsthand the merits emerging from the combined Music & Teaching Tools™. Ralph has already composed for the orchestration pioneered in Stormworks' Band of the 3rd Millennium™ ... and his students have requested that “making a STORMWORKS CD be made a part of the curriculum each year.” Indeed, we next recorded STORMWORKS Chapter 13: Whispers on the Wind, the first-of-its-kind recording of Music for Band produced on Digital Music Cards.

STORMWORKS Chapter 2 was recorded by an ex-East German ensemble from Leipzig, exactly 10 years to the day, after the breaking of the Berlin Wall. This document, with its 36 Musicians, traces the History of Oppression to Freedom. The saxophones were hired separately. Why? Because Adolf Hitler had banned the use of saxophones, a tradition with this ensemble, which until Chapter 2 remained intact. WENDE is the German word that describes the Wall coming down. The title was given by one of the saxophone players!

STORMWORKS Chapter 3 was recorded by what was at that Time, the finest Band in the World. It was the first and only Time this ensemble chose to record the original Music of a single composer. Wait of the World represents one of the finest documents of original Music for Band yet recorded. It traces the Journey of Man, from his murky beginnings to his great Calling... into Heaven and beyond. The Marine Band of the Royal Netherlands Navy has requested the making of another STORMWORKS Album! The adventure continues!

STORMWORKS Chapters 5:8 demonstrates the Brotherhood of Man. This World Historic document commissioned by Germans, Jews, Americans, Japanese, Austrians, Italians... and more, is rendered by 143 World Class Musicians of the Japanese Military joined by two Choirs from Shenandoah and Old Dominion Universities. Later, Telly & AVA award-winning visualizations, using pioneering, ground-breaking processes called VisaREEL™ and PHOTORhythm™ were set to DVD, sent to congress, and won Bronze Stars and Purple Hearts for ex-POWs of Bataan & Corregidor.

"Your Music is so beautiful, but it is more than beautiful. It is not for European or America or Japan, but for whole world." Ms. S. Miya, Agent of Ms. Rieko Suzuki, after recording the Concerto for Violin

"Your soul will be opened..." on the premiere of Symphony III: Lightfall. Maestro Gerhardt Zimmermann Conductor, Canton Symphony

"Stephen Melillo's compositions, unlike any others, shape the musical truth and integrity of artistic expression." Edward S. Lisk Conductor & Author

"Melillo is to wind music what Beethoven was to the symphony orchestra... Superlative musical craftsmanship and inspiring to hear." Marvin Sosna Music Critic
